Medical Waste Disposal

- Keep the medication in its original container; Get a sharpie marker and cross out all of the info on the label; Find something that will pollute the medication (coffee grounds, sand, water etc) and add that to the medication. Put the container in the trash so that it can be destroyed with other waste. (Information provided by CRERPA)

The Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Waste Management staff recommends that before disposing of used syringes in regular household trash, home users properly package them by:

- Placing syringes in rigid, puncture-resistant, opaque containers, such as bleach or liquid detergent bottles; and labeling the containers "Do Not Recycle" and "Sharps."
- Securely sealing the containers with heavy-duty tape. Staff recommends that individuals contact hospitals, clinics, pharmacies, or other facilities to find out if they collect packaged used syringes.
